Counting coins is like skip counting bead chains! First, separate all your coins into piles of all the same value coins. Put any paper money aside in another pile. Next, count the number of each value coin and write it in the table. Then, skip count the value of each pile of same-value coins, and write your subtotal in the table. Add up the value of all the coins, and convert to a dollar value. Then, add up any notes. Finally, find the grand total for your purse of coins.
